Course Description:

Advanced professional development and supervised practice for graduate students in counseling psychology. Students will develop and/or practice their counseling skills within a specialized setting, or with a specialized counseling focus.

This course provides an opportunity for professional development and supervised practice for graduate students in counselling psychology. The class seminars provide opportunity for group supervision of student work with clients, and for discussion of issues encountered in the practicum settings. The practicum settings provide opportunity for supervised practice in counselling/psychological techniques with clients.

Course Objectives:

Upon completion of this course, participants will be able to:

- Demonstrate the transfer of skills and knowledge acquired through prior courses to applied counselling/psychological settings; and
- Incorporate theory, skilled practice and applied experience into a personal counselling/psychological framework.

Course Process:

This course will use collaborative learning as the course delivery approach. Collaborative learning approaches encourage learners to both contribute to the learning of their peers, and learn from their colleagues as well. The course instructor will provide the overall course structure and expectations, and ensure that essential learning outcomes, as outlined in the course objectives, are met.

Seminar Dates: September 6, October 4, November 1, and December 6.

Course Evaluation:

1. ITP Loop/Narrative of practicum experiences (4 @ 5% each) – process will be introduced in the first seminar session.
2. Case Presentations (3 @ 10% each) – format will be available in the Moodle site for the course.

3. Practicum evaluation (50%) – format is in the Practicum Manual, available in the Moodle site.

Assignment Descriptions:

1. ITP Loop/Narrative: This assignment asks students to write a narrative of a practicum experience and place it in the ITP Loop (Integration of Theory and Practice) in order to better understand the experience and to link this to theory personal responses, and the use of therapeutic processes. The narratives will be written and shared in the seminar, and will become a way to discuss and deconstruct practice experiences, and to connect them with theory and practice wisdom.
2. Case Presentations: Students will prepare a case presentation, using the format provided, for presentation in each seminar. The case will be used to discuss intervention processes, the use of theory, strategies, and techniques, the counsellor's role in the process, and the development of alternative responses to meeting the needs of the persons being served. Other class members will participate as peer supervisors.
