2. PRESENTATIONS

2.1 Day Care Action Committee

Terry Royer introduced Loralee Edwards, Past Students' Union President, and members of the Day Care Action Committee, Nafisa Jadavji, Andy Davies, Harold Jansen, Andrea Amelinckx, and Charlotte Kingston. Members of this group gave a presentation about on-campus child care, the text of which is filed with these minutes.

Andrea Amelinckx, Director of the International program in the Faculty of Management is a member of the Gender Issues Caucus. She mentioned that in 2002 the Caucus looked at this issue and found that the University of Lethbridge is one of the few universities which does not have on campus day care. The Gender Issues Caucus has met with Bill Cade on this issue. Andrea Amelinckx noted that having an on-campus day care would provide support for students, faculty and staff.

It was recognized that the Day Care Feasibility Study done by the Irwin Easthope was well done and timely.

Recommendations being brought forward for the structure of an on-campus day care are:

- Non-profit facility with parent board
- Parent input in the design of the program
- Consultation with First Nations elders and leaders regarding needs for this particular constituency
- Qualified, trained professional staff—with above market wages in order to sustain continuity of staff
- Extended hours
- Drop in Service/Part time care
- Parent board
- Infant care
- Early childhood development programs
- First Nations cultural development programs
- Space for 100 children
- Outdoor playground
- Easily accessible by private and public transportation
- Low child to care provider ratio
- Food service for ethnic and special needs children
- Accommodation for students and parents with disabilities
- Subsidization for student parents

When asked to consider the preference between a day care on campus or a non-profit facility, Lorelee Edwards replied that an on-campus day care was more important than non-profit. She noted that the issue is quality care, and this is the reason for wanting a parent board.

Terry Royer requested that the Day Care Action Committee prioritize the list of wants.

It was also reported that the ULFA executive has spoken in support of an on-campus day care.

Tyler Tanner asked the committee which of the five scenarios from the feasibility study are they proposing. Lorelee Edwards responded that contracting out is acceptable, if it is to a quality provider with a parent board.
