

New Course!

FALL 2018

Instructor:

Katherine Chubbs

RN, BN, MHS, CHE, DBA (in progress)

Wednesdays

6:00 - 8:50 p.m.

M1035

ABHL 3850 INDIGENOUS HEALTH LEADERSHIP

Taught by an experienced senior health leader, this course will examine best practices in health leadership and apply them to working with or in the context of Indigenous communities and organizations. Students will acquire a broad understanding of the challenges facing health leaders and will develop skills to strengthen their health leadership performance.

- Understanding leadership
- Ethics in health care
- Building teams
- Change management

- Leadership styles
- Self-development
- Strategic planning
- Performance management

- Power in the leadership context
- Engagement
- LEADS competencies
- Creating a multicultural workforce

This course is also offered at the graduate level as ABHL 5850 Indigenous Health Leadership.