Course Description:

In this class, we will explore the question: “What is sexual orientation?” As such, what concerns us here is not why one sexual orientation or another exists. Rather, we will be concerned with how to more accurately identify what the term “sexual orientation” encompasses, so that we can then characterize the component parts of this phenomenon in as accurate a manner as possible. Some of the questions we will be addressing include: How can we measure sexual orientation? What is sexual arousal, sexual attraction, sexual behavior and sexual orientation identity and how are they related? Does male bisexuality exist? Are women more sexually fluid than men? Is sexual orientation about lust or love? What is love? Does everyone have a sexual orientation? Can sexual orientation change on its own, or can it be changed via some sort of intervention? Does attraction and arousal to particular sexed bodies encompass the totality of one’s sexual orientation? How do we characterize the sexual orientation of individuals whose peak sexual arousal results from unusual objects or activities? Can sexual orientation be directed toward oneself? How do sexual orientation identities vary historically and cross-culturally? Where do sexual orientation identities come from and why do they even exist?

Required Readings:

You will be required to read peer-reviewed academic articles, as well as, scholarly book chapters. These have been carefully chosen to maximize your engagement and learning and minimize your workload. Most are conceptual in scope. They must be read before each class in order for lectures and discussions to function properly. Readings marked with an asterisk (*) in the reading schedule below can be found on the course Moodle page. Some of the readings are linked to websites. All other readings can be obtained from the University of Lethbridge library system.

Evaluation:

- Assignment #1: maximum 3 pages. 20% (February 9th).
- Assignment #2: maximum 3 pages. 20% (February 16)
- Assignment #3: maximum 5 pages. 40% (April 23 by 4:00 pm in Psychology Dropbox, in hallway by Psychology Department Office, D866)
- 5 Pop Quizzes: 20% (4% each)

All assignments must be typed and double-spaced, and must not exceed the page limits stated above. All assignments should have a cover page with your name, ID#, and the title of the reading. References should be listed using APA style. Pop quizzes will be multiple choice, fill in the blank, and/or short answer.

Assignment #1:

Question: Is Matteson bisexual? Justify your response using evidence from the readings cover in Weeks 2-4.

Assignment #2:

Questions: How are men on the DL different from and similar to men who undergo reparative therapy? How do the DL men described by Denizet-Lewis illustrate the difference between “doing” and “being” gay? How do they illustrate the idea that individuals strive to construct “coherent selves”?

Assignment #3:

Question: How would you characterize Califia’s sexual orientation? Justify your response by referring to the various components of sexual orientation that we have discussed throughout the course. I encourage students to learn about Califia using other sources.

Bonus Marks
Participation in Department of Psychology studies (maximum 2%):
After your final grade has been calculated, you can have an additional 2% added onto your final grade. This will give you an opportunity to experience how psychological research is conducted. A list of potential studies in which you can participate will be listed on the course’s Moodle webpage approximately two weeks after the start of the course (an email will be sent by the Department Assistant when the studies are on-line). The url for the studies will be http://psychleth.sona-systems.com. Your username will be your name that you use to login to your uleth email but the password will be psyc3845a until you change it. Because research studies start up throughout the semester, additional projects may be listed through the course.

In accordance with the University of Lethbridge Calendar,

D = Poor
F = Fail

(2) The lectures, readings, and films will deal frankly with controversial issues pertaining to sexuality. The course content may be sexually explicit. This content may make some people uncomfortable and, as such, unable to follow lectures, complete assignments or even attend classes. Such individuals should seriously reflect upon this possibility before committing to taking this optional course.
Given the controversial nature of the course material, a diversity of viewpoints will inevitably exist in the classroom. Voicing well-reasoned disagreement with others viewpoints is perfectly fine (even encouraged!); being disrespectful towards others is not (see Section 6.b.I of the University Calendar).

As per the University Calendar, Section 6.h.I.:

“When a student disrupts instructional activities, the instructor may exclude the student immediately from instructional space and/or from future scheduled instructional meetings of that course pending further actions by the Dean.”

When students talk amongst themselves during lectures it disrupts instructional activities and, consequently, I will respond accordingly. On this note, please turn your cell phones off prior to the beginning of the lecture. Please do not use the internet during lectures.

All questions pertaining to the course material must be asked during class or on the Moodle discussion board for the course. Do not email the instructor or the teaching assistant with such questions. Questions posed on the Moodle discussion board will be answered by the teaching assistant in consultation with the Instructor. Students are allowed to post questions on the Moodle discussion board once a day. The teaching assistant will check and respond to Moodle questions once a day. Questions received after this will be answered the following day, unless it is a day on which a test falls. We will not respond to question about tests on the day of the test.

Following tests the teaching assistant will be available to meet, discuss your test results and show you the correct answers. See the teaching assistant office hours for available meeting times. The teaching assistant is not available to meet with students about their test results outside of these scheduled times. Students who wish to meet with the teaching assistant to discuss their results should come prepared with specific questions and explain why they think there might a problem with a particular question (i.e., I think I should have gotten a mark for this because on page XX of the assigned reading, it says “XXXX”). If students meet with the teaching assistants as part of a fishing expedition for marks (i.e., “I think I should have gotten a mark for this! Tell me why I didn’t!”), then the TA will simply ask them why they think they should have gotten a mark.

Students can hand in late assignments if they provide documentation from a doctor stating that they were ill on the day of the assignment was due (and sick on the subsequent days prior to them handing in the assignment) and that their performance would have been seriously affected by this illness. If a student was the exclusive caregiver of a family member that was ill, then they must provide a doctors note stating this. Documentation must have the doctor’s name, address and phone number. Non-medical reasons for handing in a late assignment (i.e., a death in the family) must also be supported with appropriate documentation.
With respect to these issues, students can email the teaching assistant directly who will then communicate this information to the instructor and the appropriate accommodations will be made. If you email the TA be sure to include your course number in the subject line and use correct grammar and spelling.

(8) My course notes/powerpoint presentations will not be provided to students. I will, however, send students selected slides from my powerpoint presentations that contain graphics. In such cases, I will notify students in class that such a slide will be emailed to them. I reserve the right to decide which slides will be emailed to students in this manner.

(9) I do not provide study guides.

(10) Additional work will not be assigned for those who wish to improve their grades.

(11) I will not change the weight of the assignments if you do better on one in comparison to the other(s).

(12) If you miss any of the films shown in class, they cannot be borrowed from the instructor and there will not be a second screening.

(13) If students need to talk about some personal issues that are troubling them I strongly recommend they make an appointment with the councilors at the student-counseling center. The Student Counseling Office can be found in TH 218. The number at the counseling center is 317-2845. The website is: <http://www.uleth.ca/counselling/>.
